14 JURORS ARE ACCEPTED FOR MURDER TRIAL

A full jury and two alternates were drawn this afternoon at 2:05 o'clock for the trial, in Adams County court, of Francis Norman Light, 50, former Fairfield Rd. restaurant operator, now a Hanover truck driver, charged with the murder of his wife.

Selection of the jury moved slowly this morning, but Judge W. C. Sheely commented that "we are much further along than I had anticipated" when he adjourned court at noon today.

Each juror is being brought to the witness stand to answer questions concerning his knowledge of the case and the possibility of his being prejudiced before being either accepted or rejected by the Commonwealth or the defense.

11 Out Of 29

Up to noon 29 jurors had been brought from the law library one by one, to face the questioning of court and attorneys. Among questions asked were their knowledge of any of the persons who may possibly be involved in the case, their knowledge of the case gained by reading newspaper accounts or listening to radio broadcasts, whether they would be "prejudiced in any way if it were shown that the defendant and his wife drank."

The jurors were all removed to the law library this morning and then after they submitted to questioning were either added to the number in the jury box or were excused until Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Those selected for duty began at noon the confined life they will lead until they reach their verdict. At noon they went to lunch accompanied by court attendants. They will sleep tonight in a hotel, as a group, and will be together constantly until the case is over. Meantime they can talk to no one, and all needed messages to their families or businesses are relayed through the court attendants with them.

Farmer Chosen First

SUV LAY PLANS FOR OBSERVANCE OF CENTENNIAL

The Pennsylvania Department of the Sons of Union Veterans Sunday afternoon adopted plans to help promote the observance of the Civil War Centennial in every community in the state.

Meeting in executive committee at the Hotel Gettysburg in a seven-hour session 15 state officers of the SUV laid plans for each of the 50 SUV camps in the state to mark the appropriate centennial dates within their own communities.

There will also be a program over the next three years of strengthening and enlarging the Sons of Union Veterans Reserve, the military unit of the SUV which garbs in Civil War uniform and drills with Civil War type equipment in order to lend more color to the local observances.

The three-year plan for strengthening the smaller SUV camps and increasing the size of the Reserve will be carried out by Commander Higgs and during the next two years by present Senior Vice Commander Edwin Kramer, Harrisburg, and Junior Vice Commander O. G. MacPherson, Gettysburg, as they move into the commander position.

Plans were made for issuance of a department SUV newspaper carrying details of the activities of the various posts, plus details of the activities of the other GAR connected units and information concerning the Civil War and the centennial.

Boys Find Missing Man In Hole In Capital Monument

HARRISBURG (AP)—A Harrisburg man missing for three days was found Sunday night at the bottom of a 40-foot hole inside one of the monuments on the State Street bridge here.

He was taken to the Harrisburg Hospital where he was reported "doing as well as can be expected." A spokesman said the man, identified as Samuel Robinson, 31, unemployed, suffering a possible fractured ankle and malnutrition. Robinson was found by two boys who said they were looking for pigeons. Firemen lowered a ladder into the hole and raised Robinson by strapping him to a shorter ladder.

Capt. Lee Hamilton, of the capital police, said there was no explanation how Robinson fell into the hole. He said access to the monument is locked but that persons frequently force the lock and use the inside as a hangout.

The two boys, William Windemaker, 11, and Sidney Seisler, 13, stepbrothers, heard Robinson call for water when they were in the understructure of the bridge hunting for pigeons.

They dropped a container of water for him and notified firemen, who rescued him.

Capital police took over the case since the monuments are on state property.

The foundations of the war memorials are hollow but access to them normally are locked.

The hospital said Robinson was not clear on how he happened to get into the shaft.

Classroom TV Introduced In Local 6th Grade Rooms Today

Ushering in a new era in the Gettysburg public schools, classroom television was introduced this morning in the six Sixth grade classrooms and in two special education rooms.

A 15-minute program, the first of a weekly series of 32 on elementary general science, was received at 9:30 o'clock and will supplement science education in the classroom for a week.

This morning's program, which was broadcast over Channel 8 from Lancaster to some 600 schools in surrounding counties, was on "Our World and Space" in the first group of broadcasts on "The Earth and the Universe." Next Monday the topic will be "Planets and Stars."

The selection of lessons on "The Earth and the Universe" will continue through October. Then there will be a series on "Matter and Energy" that will extend into next March. The final group of lessons will be on "Living Things."

Pupils seemed interested in the initial broadcast this morning and were ready with pencil and paper to take notes during the program that challenge them "to enter into the age of exploration in the world of space as research pioneers and explorers."

Before the program the teachers had briefed the youngsters on basic information on space and gravity. Charles Leber, a Pittsburgh school teacher, was in charge of the television presentation filmed in a Pittsburgh classroom and demonstrated world space and outer space concepts, discussed the earth's rotation and orbital movements and talked briefly about the solar system, using classroom equipment in his demonstrations.

Approved By Board

Classroom bulletin boards in many of the rooms had displays to supplement the television program. After the program there were more classroom discussions on concepts of space, size and distances and there will be some "research" work by the pupils on how the earth's movements affects the earth and its people.

AIR CENTENNIAL PLANS FOR CIVIL WAR MEMORIAL

Dr. J. Walter Coleman, former superintendent of the Gettysburg National Park and now historian for the National Park Service serving as representative of the National Park director to all Civil War Centennial activities, told members attending a Civil War Centennial Committee meeting held under the auspices of the Virginia Travel Council at Virginia Beach, Saturday afternoon, "This is to be a commemoration, an observance, not a celebration."

Dr. Coleman, one of the principal speakers at the meeting attended by a local delegation, also said: "The National Park service is pushing up its Mission 66 activities in connection with the Civil War sites with the hope that everything can be completed by the time of the centennial observance." He pledged support of the National Park service "to help in every way with your plans for the centennial."

Karl S. Betts, executive director of the National Civil War Centennial Commission, told the group: "The National Commission is seeking to promote the anniversary in many ways. Plans call for the insurance of a weekly newspaper supplement during the four years marking the anniversary. The supplement will contain news stories and articles written by top historians giving a week by week account of the war. Planned also is a mobile railroad museum to travel like the 'Freedom Train' to all communities. We have been told that so far 20 ninety-minute motion pictures are being planned for release during the period."

Plan Own Activities

Robert Baldwin, 36, Aspers R. 1, was fatally injured Sunday in a collision between two trucks near Cleveland, Ohio.

Near Cleveland, Baldwin's tractor-trailer crashed into the rear of a tractor-trailer loaded with steel. The cab of Baldwin's tractor was so badly smashed that rescue workers had to use torches to cut through the twisted metal and remove Baldwin, who died later at the Berea County Hospital, Cleveland.

Vehicle Demolished

From there he traveled to Estherville, Iowa, to pick up a load of 525 cases of fresh eggs which he was to deliver to the New York market before returning here today.

He was dispatched by the Kuhn Transportation Co. dispatcher at Estherville, Iowa, Saturday enroute to New York with the sealed, refrigerated trailer, loaded with the 180,000 eggs. About four miles from the No. 10 interchange of the Ohio turnpike, near Cleveland, Baldwin's tractor-trailer smashed into the rear of a steel-loaded tractor-trailer operated by Gerald C. Hayes, Lincoln Park, Mich., and owned by Caplan Trucking Co., Cleveland.

Sgt. White of the Ohio State Police, stationed at Berea, O., said he had passed the two trucks on the highway shortly before the crash. At that time both were traveling about 50 miles an hour, the legal limit for tractor-trailers.

Brought Back By Crash

Former All-American Griddler Sees Lightning Kill Children

BIG BEAR LAKE, Calif. (AP)—Lightning crackled down from a sudden storm and killed two children and injured a third while their father, former All America football player Bob Reinhard, watched helplessly from a skiff on the lake.

A moment after the tragedy Sunday the storm ended and this lake resort in the San Bernardino Mountains was bathed in sunshine. The lightning bolt exploded into a plywood shack on the lake's shore where the three youngsters had ducked out of the downpour.

Reinhard, one of the University of California's greatest linemen and later a professional star with the old Los Angeles Dons and Los Angeles Rams, was fishing on the lake with his fourth child, Robert, 10.

Reinhard rowed ashore and hurried to the splintered and still smoldering shack. He bundled the three children into his station wagon—without realizing that two were dead—and drove to a nearby hospital.

Lawrence, 7, and Trudy Lee, 13, were pronounced dead on arrival. Their sister Diana, 14, was badly burned about the neck and reported partially paralyzed. Her condition was listed as critical.

Reinhard, manager of a Los Angeles automotive works, had been vacationing with his family at the lake for two weeks.

Robber Kidnaps Pretty Blonde After Holding Up Companions

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP)—A gunman invaded a secluded lover's lane near here Sunday, shot up an automobile, robbed its four occupants and seized a pretty 18-year-old blonde. Then he fled into the early morning darkness.

The kidnapped girl was identified as Marjorie Schneider, a Fort Collins stenographer whose parents live at Wakeney, Kan.

As he dragged Miss Schneider toward his car, the gunman turned and said: "Thanks for the money. Sorry I busted up your car. I want the blonde to come with me."

Sheriff Ray Scheever and more than a score of deputies searched the northern Colorado area in patrol cars during the night, but turned up no lead to the missing girl and her captor.

The kidnapping occurred at Horsetooth Reservoir four miles southwest of Fort Collins. Miss Schneider's companions rushed two miles to telephone officers.

Sheriff Ray Scheever said indications are that the crew-cut gunman is extremely accurate with the high-powered rifle which he carries.

Others Identified

Scheever identified other occupants of the car as Miss Schneider's date, Ellsworth E. Farnik, 21, a student of Colorado State University here from Estes Park, Colo.; James Coleman, 19, a Fort Collins fireman; and his wife, Janet, 18.

Scheever said the bullets from the gunman's rifle shattered the Farnik vehicle's windshield, shot out the headlights, two front tires and radiator.

None of the four was injured.

Classroom TV
The Gettysburg Joint School Board at its August meeting had approved the "experiment" in the classroom use of television here after Superintendent H. Edgar Riegle and Elementary Principal Richard Folkenroth reported on sample science TV programs they had seen from the series currently being used.

Bids were asked on the eight sets and the purchase was made from the Shryock Television Service at its low offer of $159.50 per set. That figure includes "rabbit ears" tuning and a year's free service. All are 1955 table models with handcraft circuits.

Both Superintendent Riegle and Mr. Folkenroth, who witnessed the first broadcasts this morning, were pleased with the program and the evidence of pupil and teacher interest in the series.

Topics for the later broadcasts include The Sun and the Moon, Our Other Space Neighbors, The Earth's Crust, Our Soil, Coal and Long Ago, Air and Weather, What Things Are Made Of, Compounds and Chemical Change, Fire and Its Prevention, Heat, Electricity and Magnetism, Making and Using Electricity, Sound, Light, Simple Machines, Principles of Flight, Our Weather, Climate and People, Plants, Animals, Conservation, Needs of the Human Body, Gardening and Social Animals.

The series, which was used previously in the Mt. Lebanon schools at Pittsburgh, is being sponsored by the state Department of Public Instruction and is being offered to the schools without any cost.

The sets in use in the schools this morning included four in Sixth grade rooms and one in a special education room at High St. School, two in Sixth grade rooms at Kee-fauver School and one in a special education room at the high school school building.

The Giants closed the season with a 15-win, three-loss record and this is the first year since Little League was organized in the community that the Giants have emerged as champions.

Letter To The Editor

September 5, 1958

Dear Sir:
Many times it is said that we younger businessmen of the community would like to remake our town into a modern community with straight line buildings, gleaming exteriors, and trimmed with futuristic monstrosities. Although I am sure we all look for progress in solving our town's problems many of us love the quiet dignity and historic charm of Gettysburg. We believe that our progressive future lies in the development of our historic past and we do not feel that modern design has a rightful place in the community.

I for one do not feel that the beauty and historic atmosphere can be increased by the installation of a modern electrical street lighting system in the downtown area. It may be that more light is needed and necessary but there must be some way of doing this without destroying the peaceful setting that one now finds when strolling around Lincoln Square on a summer evening.

Improve Buildings

I have been very pleased to note that several of our leading businessmen have undertaken to improve exteriors of their buildings not in the modern trend but by restoring them to their appearance of Civil War days. Is the beginning of the restoration of our community to be ruined by the glaring illumination of modern America which has its place only in towns and cities that do not link their futures with the historical past?

I hope the citizens of Gettysburg will rally to the idea of preserving the beauty and historical setting of our town and that they will urge the council to re-consider their decision so that the visitors that come to Gettysburg will remember it for its quaint atmosphere and the feeling of the past which they have when they stroll our streets.

Sincerely yours,

Donald H. Becker
This is an expression of my own opinion and not that of MacDonald Company.

have established scholarships for the advanced study of the Civil War period.

Virginia State Senator Charles T. Moses, of Appomattox, chairman of the Virginia Civil War Centennial Commission, told of preliminary plans of that state in connection with the centennial. Jay Winston Johns, president of the Stonewall Jackson Memorial Foundation, Lexington, sketched their plans, together with the states involved, to mark the battlefields in which Stonewall Jackson took part and which are not now marked. To avoid being "held up" by farm land that triples in value, the purchases have been made of strategic spots from which visitors may look over the entire battlefield and where explanations may be made, Johns said. He added, "We are trying to do this on our own because we do not believe that the federal government should have to pay for everything. We believe that if we are proud of our heritage we can do it ourselves."

Replica Of Merrimac
Walter Calvin of Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce reported on plans of that city to build a replica of the "Merrimac" and the shipyard in which was constructed the iron clad vessel which defeated an entire Union fleet before the "Monitor." A Union iron clad, met it. The "Merrimac" in effect changed the entire course of naval warfare. The city, he said, has spent $300,000 to purchase the land and it is expected that the replica will be completed by March 1962.

Dewey Short, assistant secretary of the Army and member of the National Civil War Centennial Commission, told the group "The Civil War Centennial will mean a strengthening of our values and our traditions. The war ended in a paradox — a strong, united America with its unity based upon the greatest diversity, a diversity of regional tradition and interest, of economic activity, and of religious and political conviction."

One hundred ten units of Civil War period garbed marksmen will take part in the North-South Skirmish to be held here October 4 and 5, with about 8,000 persons expected to attend the shoot. Gettysburg's Travel Council Chamber of Commerce and Civil War Round Table were represented at the conference by LeRoy E. Smith, Thomas M. Nicholas, Meligakes, William Musser, William G. Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. G. Henry Roth and Attorney Donald M. Swope, who is also a member of the Pennsylvania State Civil War Centennial Commission.

GERMAN SMASHES 100 METER MARK

LINDAU, Germany (AP)—The 100 meters finally have been run in 10 seconds. That's like a four-minute mile. But there is some doubt if it'll get official recognition as a world record.

Armin Hary, a 21-year-old West German precision machinist, hit the 10 second figure Saturday at Friedrichshafen as he clipped one-fifth second off the listed world record set by American Willie Williams at Berlin Aug. 3, 1956, and tied on the same track the following day by another Yank, Ira Murchison. Williams did it again Aug. 5.

An unofficial measurement of the Friedrichshafen track showed it sloped slightly more than permitted under international track regulations. An official survey was to be made today.

Two timekeepers clocked Hary in 9.9 and a third in 10 flat. They also are to be officially checked.

FIREMEN WILL PURCHASE PUMP

The Conewago Fire Company will purchase a portable pump, according to action taken at a meeting Friday at Edge Grove.

The pump will be demonstrated by Ivan J. Houck, Hanover, Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the engine house. Powered by an 8-horsepower engine the pump is said to be capable of "supplying water to the fire engine at almost any distance or location." The company also voted to purchase 300 feet of 2 1/2-inch hose for use with the new pump. A finance drive will be started in the near future to pay for the new equipment.

Today's Talk

PEACE AFTER PAIN
Few of us ever escape all pain. Most of us take what is meted out to us, bearing it with the fullest courage we know, and after all is over we feel grateful to God for bringing us out of pain into peace. Pain is often given, I believe, to test our courage. I know that it has cleansing power.

I have noted that those who are shut-in and deprived of so much in nature are unusually brave and cheerful, with bright faces and shining souls. It shows in the eyes! I can say that after every period of pain I have had, I came out with a braver front, and with a determination to try and make up to others the opportunity to learn from pain what I did.

We pray during illness, especially during very serious illness, but I feel that many, including myself, do not pray with confidence. It is this confidence that opens up the wide, pleasant way ahead and puts determination into the important faculties of this body of ours. There is one thing we all remember, if we have had serious illness, and that is the peace that followed the pain. It is as though we had been cleansed — as we were — and entered life anew!

In all the affairs of this life of ours there are rough spots to experience, and learn from, as well. I am put to shame when I visit friends in a home or hospital and learn how cheerful they remain, and how they encourage and bless us by their attitude of mind. This mind of ours is a very wonderful and magical gift from our Creator. He meant that we should use it ably and wholeheartedly. A friend somewhere may be thinking of us!

Someone is always thinking of, and perhaps praying for, us.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Try Greeting the Dawn"

Just Folks

TWO VIEWPOINTS

Out in the open, the wide sky above,
And the green meadows stretched at my feet;
Out in the open, midst scenes that I love,
Where the rest hour is soothing and sweet;
Out in the country, where nature's a play
And the wild flowers look up with a smile,
I am hurrying now for a short holiday;
I'm goin' to rest there awhile.

Into the city, where life isn't dead,
An' there's somethin' a feller can do,
Where hundreds of people keep forgin' ahead
An' runnin' right plumb into you;
Where there's hustle and bustle, an' somethin' to see,
An' you never get lonesome nor blue;
I tell you, the city's the fine place to be,
An' I'm going when harvestin' through.

James MARLOW Reports

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is one of the important weeks in American history. The Supreme Court, meeting Thursday, must do two things:

1. Give a decision which will affect the whole course of public school integration.

2. Decide a critical principle in law enforcement: whether mob violence and community antagonism can block a court order.

Specifically, the court will only be hearing arguments on the Little Rock school board's request to delay integration in Central High 2 1/2 years.

The reason: the opposition of Little Rock's white people to integration.

Far-Reaching Effect
But the far-reaching effect of the Supreme Court's decision—whatever it is—can be seen from this:

Several federal district judges—faced with opposition to integration in their districts this year—indicate they'll be guided by the court's decision.

Integration in Central High began last September under order of a federal judge. Then came mob violence and growing hostility in Little Rock.

Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus blocked the court order with National Guardsmen who kept Negroes out of the school. He said he did it to prevent violence.

Get Long Delay
Then, to back up the court order by seeing to it the Negroes go into school, President Eisenhower had to keep federalized National Guardsmen in Little Rock all year.

Some months ago the board asked, and got from, another federal district judge a 2 1/2-year delay. This was overruled by the U. S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals. Thus the case came to the Supreme Court for a final ruling.

The Circuit Court pointed out the broad implications of giving Little Rock a delay simply because of opposition to a court order by white people living there: "An impossible situation could develop. Every school district in which integration is publicly opposed by overt acts would have 'justifiable excuse' to petition the courts for delay and suspension of integration programs."

Invitations To Violence
The court said a delay for Little Rock "would amount to an open invitation to elements in other districts to overtly act out public opposition through violent and unlawful means."

So it happens Little Rock's Central High provides a classic test of how long community opposition can delay a court order and hence law enforcement.

The reason: Integration didn't begin there haphazardly but carefully and according to prescribed conditions laid down by the Supreme Court.

The court, instead of saying integration had to begin everywhere at once, took into account the fact that getting it started one place might be more difficult than in another because of differences in public attitudes.

All Deliberate Speed
So it said integration must begin with "all deliberate speed" — a carefully vague phrase — and left it up to the various federal district judges to decide when integration in their districts should begin.

The federal judge in Little Rock didn't act arbitrarily. The school board worked on an integration plan which it felt could be carried out peacefully, starting in 1957 and ending in 1963.

The federal district judge then, after consultation with the board, approved the plan and ordered it to begin last September.

It's possible — but highly unlikely — the Supreme Court will permit the public opposition in Little Rock to persuade it to grant the 2 1/2 year delay.

It's possible — but perhaps unlikely — that the court will now spell out just what it means by the phrase "all deliberate speed" as a guide to federal judges who have to make decisions on when to integrate in their districts.

One thing is certain: Although the Supreme Court outlawed public school segregation in 1954, integration has been far from speedy.

The New York Times reports that of 2,892 biracial districts in this country, only 792 have been integrated.

Says 120,400 In Service Can Vote

HARRISBURG (AP) — John S. Rice, secretary of the Commonwealth, said today the fall election could be determined by the armed services vote.

Rice said he had been told by offices of the armed services that there are some 120,400 Pennsylvania service men and women 21 years old or older eligible to vote.

STATE STEPS UP PAYING OFF OF DAMAGE CLAIMS

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Highways Department disclosed today it is handling 700 right-of-way claims a month under a speeded-up program of paying off property owners affected by road construction.

The biggest feature of the acceleration program provides for paying off 75 per cent of the claims immediately, with the remainder held up until differences are settled.

Chief Counsel John R. Rezzolla said more than 7,000 claims would be handled in 1958 compared to 5,000 last year and only 3,200 the year before.

Blamed On Error
"We're moving as fast as conditions will allow," he told a newsman. "Actually, our new program is paying off property owners in a matter of weeks when before it was a matter of months or years."

Rezzolla was asked about recent criticism by Rep. Albert W. Johnson, House Republican floor leader, that property damage checks were delayed for road construction near Stroudsburg this year.

The highway attorney acknowledged the delay and blamed it on an error at a lower administrative level. When it was discovered, he said, the department set up a special task force to clean up the claims on an expedited basis.

News From Nearby Counties

FRANKLIN COUNTY
Misfire Averts Tragedy
An attempt to shoot a neighbor "to stop him from talking about me" landed a 50-year-old Waynesboro man in Franklin County jail Friday. Arthur Samuel Nail, of 64 Locust St., was held without bail following his arraignment before Justice of the Peace Edgar Oiler on a charge of pointing a deadly weapon.

Police said they responded to a call from from Melvin L. Rock who reported that Nail tried to shoot him. Police quoted Rock as saying that Nail pointed a revolver at him and pulled the trigger three times. The weapon misfired. Police reported finding a .38 calibre pistol in Nail's house. It was loaded with five cartridges, police said, and three bore hammer marks.

Police theorized that the age of the ammunition or condition of the gun prevented a more serious injury. They also said they found a hunting knife on Nail's person when he was searched at police headquarters.

The registration office in Chambersburg will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. this week to receive new registrations before the September 15 deadline, according to a decision by the Franklin County commissioners reported 272 new voters registered in special and regular registration centers, 174 Democrats, 93 Republicans and five non-partisans.

With an unusual number of bridge reconstruction projects in prospect, the commissioners have declined to allocate liquid fuel tax money for land damages in two state road projects in Peters and Metal townships.

Mercersburg's historic center square fountain sustained $500 damage recently when a circling tractor trailer hit smashed into the wall surrounding it.

Eight courses for adults will be offered in night classes at the Greencastle - Antrim High School this year.

SPORTSWRITERS ANALYZE GRID H. S. SCHOOLBOY GRID OUTLOOK

By FRED WALTERS
HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's high school grid teams began their final week of pre-season training today. This weekend they begin picking up the marbles.

A number of games are scheduled for Friday and Saturday but, with few exceptions, they'll be the traditional warmups for the important conference games starting later.

This is the way the 1958 campaign looks to sportswriters around the Commonwealth:

New Champior. Likely

In the west:

The WPIAL Double-A race will be the usual wide-open brawl with the exception that defending champion Wilkinsburg is not rated a contender this year. The race shapes up as a battle among Mt. Lebanon, Johnstown, Uniontown, Baldwin, Charleroi, and Clairton with Har-Brack much improved, Jeannette on the way back after an off-season, and Sharon and Farrell dark horse contenders.

Braddock, unbeaten in 36 games, is the team the contenders will have to beat out for Class A honors, but Braddock may have lost too many veterans to repeat. In that case, the champion should emerge from among Scott Township, Carnegie, Leechburg, Glassport, Canonsburg and Beaver.

In Pittsburgh, Westinghouse is favored to win for the fifth straight year. It hasn't lost a league game since 1953.

Carry Strong Again

St. Mary's has a 21-game winning streak going in the Allegheny Mountain and Bucktail conferences in the northwest. Bradford looks strongest among the independents.

In Section II of District 10, Corry is back with a strong team this year and defending co-champion Meadville also looks tough. Duquesne, co-champion last year,

Lewistown looks strong enough to repeat as champion of the big Western Conference and has strong backing as repeater in the Susquehanna Conference. Lewisburg, which took half the championship

Carlisle In South Penn
Defending champion Lancaster is the pre-season favorite in the Central Penn Conference. But its chances of winning again hinge largely on the outcome of its Oct. 8 game with always strong Williamsport.

Carlisle is favored to repeat in the South Penn Conference but Hershey is the team it has to beat. Gettysburg is a dark horse.

Among the eastern teams:

Shamokin is expected to win the Southern Division title in the pawling Eastern Penn Conference without dispute this year and meet Old Forge of the Northern Division for the conference in

Favor Easton
Mt. Carmel and Tamaqua are rated Shamokin's strongest contenders with Cass Township, which defeated Shamokin, 2-0, in a division playoff last year. Shamokin is rated good, but not good enough. The defending champion Scranton Central and West Scranton are Old

The Wyoming Valley Conference championship should be settled Sept. 19 when favorite Kingston meets leading contender Hanover. Easton is picked the strongest among the eastern big three with Bethlehem a darkhorse but always strong Allentown facing one of its poorer seasons.

Ooplay is a heavy choice to repeat in the Lehigh-Northampton league. It not only has its starting team intact but also eight substitutes. Perennial champion Northampton is expected to repeat in the Lehigh Valley League.

Athens And Sayre

Athens and Sayre are picked as chief contenders for the Roosevelt Trail League title in the north-

In suburban Philadelphia, a class B school, Radnor, may turn out to be best of them all, a prospect that should be clearer after its Thanksgiving Day battle with Lower Merion, a traditional class A powerhouse. Meanwhile, the suburban One League race looks wide open with Haverford as the slight favorite.

TESTS INDICATE ORDINARY DIET IS RADIOACTIVE

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer
GENEVA (AP)—What you eat today can be hundreds of times more radioactive than your meals of yesterday, or tomorrow.

That's because some foods naturally contain more radioactive thorium and radium than others, three British scientists said today. Some nuts, including Brazil nuts, and some cereals are generally much "hotter" than meats, fruits, adneges, and milk. Drs. W. V. Mayneord, J. M. Radley and R. C. Turner of the Royal Cancer Hospital, London, told the atoms-for-peace conference.

Normal Radiation
All this makes up part of the normal, background radiation that everyone lives with. Plants take up tiny amounts of the naturally existing thorium and radium in the earth. Animals eating plants consume some of it, too.

But foods apparently can be a main source of daily intake of radioactivity, and this "completely overshadows the intake from milk and water, hitherto often supposed to be the main sources," the report said.

This is based upon careful tests of all the food eaten for one month by one 4-year-old boy, and so is an indication only at this stage.

Samples Measured
Samples of everything the boy ate were measured for Alpha radiation from thorium and radium. Amounts of this radioactivity excreted from his body also were measured.

About 10 per cent of time radioactivity stayed in the body.

"Two persons on apparently normal diets may differ in total radioactivity intake by factors of many hundreds," the British scientists said. "This makes the variations of Alpha activity observed in the human skeleton hardly surprising."

Alpha Radiation
Alpha radiation is the cores of helium atoms, emitted by radioactive thorium and radium.

Brazil nuts contained about 1,400 times more Alpha radiation than cheese and eggs, and milk, while vegetables, meats and fruits contained still less than cheese, they said.

Cereals ranked second with 60 units compared with 1,400 for Brazil nuts on their scale measuring the infinitesimal amounts of radioactivity. Teas had 40 units, liver and kidney 15, flour 14, peanuts and peanut butter 12, chocolates 8.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Dr. Jonas E. Salk, developer of the anti-polio vaccine, has received a $252,000 grant from the National Foundation for cancer study. Salk is attempting to find a link between tissue culture cells and human cells. He has not developed a treatment for cancer.

State police reported the truck was operated by John Grenoble, Carlisle Mounted Route, who is engaged in a paving project at Boiling Springs. The yoke connection broke and the sweeper veered to the side of the street. Recard, who was riding on the rear of the sweeper, was thrown off.

Light is charged with the fatal stabbing of his wife, Jessie Jean Light, 41, police, at the time of the capture of Light, said that he and his wife were arguing about some clothing she had removed from their trailer home. On a car ride near Natural Dam he is alleged to have stabbed her in the leg with a knife and she bled to death. He is alleged to have then placed the wife's body in the trunk of a borrowed car he was operating, where the body was later found.

Selected by the court to represent Light are Attorneys Eugene Hartman and John Thrush.

WOMAN HURT IN TWO-CAR CRASH

The efforts of a westbound Mt. Joy, Pa., motorist to pass a tractor-trailer on a grade led to an accident between two eastbound motorists five miles east of here on the Lincoln Highway at 8:30 o'clock this morning, according to state police.

The officers said Elton R. Bomberger, 27, Mt. Joy, was driving west when he sought to pass a tractor-trailer. As his vehicle came into the eastbound lane he saw the auto of Guy Zentz, 55, of Waynesboro. Bomberger turned his car onto the south berm of the highway and escaped involvement in the crash that followed.

Zentz, seeing the Bomberger car in his path, according to police, braked quickly and attempted to turn off the road onto the south berm. Another eastbound auto, operated by Paul Davis, 43, Shady Grove, Pa., following the Zentz car, was unable to stop quickly enough in the emergency and Davis' vehicle plunged into the rear of the Zentz car.

Mrs. Loreta Zentz, a passenger in the auto driven by her husband, suffered minor back and neck injuries and was treated by a physician in Waynesboro.

Police are continuing their investigation into the accident. Damage was estimated at $800 to the Zentz car and $300 to Davis' vehicle.

MANY CITIES SEEKING NEW INDUSTRIES

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—All across the land, cities small and large are looking for new industrial plants to boost the local economy. Even in today's slower tempo of branch plant building there are still a sizable number of companies looking for new locations.
Getting the two together is the trick—both for the communities and for corporate management.
State and local development agencies are estimated to have spent 40 million dollars last year trying to attract more industries.
Even so, some industrial executives say many town boosters seem unaware of industry's actual needs before it can build a successful plant. One firm has drawn up a list of these needs as a yardstick, both for communities and industry.
A reverse switch to this is that some areas—particularly residential suburbs of big industrial centers—protest strongly against letting in industrial plants.
In this special field there are industrial and commercial realty firms that help communities find interested corporations and help industries find locations and fit into the local scheme of things with minimum of friction.

An industrial rule of thumb on choosing between different prospective plant sites is offered by J. C. Cleaver, president of Cleaver-Brooks Co. of Milwaukee. It grew out of the firm's search for a site to serve its Canadian market for boilers and burners. The company was flooded with letters and leaflets, some from the United States, although its announced intent was to build in Canada.
Cleaver's tests for choosing an industrial nesting place are these:
Nearness to markets, to population centers, to raw materials, to good transportation lines; labor's stability of supply, capability of being trained in skilled trades, and competitive wage structures;
Pleasant living conditions with good schools and recreational areas, a church-going population, adequate law enforcement; non-discriminatory taxes, local government support and interest in new business, the citizens' sympathy for business problems, civic pride in community, enterprising press and radio, cooperation of established businessmen;
Availability of land to build and expand, good public utilities, and adequate services at hand for maintaining the new plant.
And last, says Cleaver, "an aura of quiet confidence in the success of the future."
(He finally chose Stratford, Ontario, for his $900,000 investment.)

ARMED YOUTHS GET IN TROUBLE

PERRYOPOLIS, Pa. (AP)—Nineteen juveniles and eight older youths were in trouble with authorities because they allegedly armed themselves and cruised Perryopolis in cars.
Police Chief Lou Marcinak said he and other borough officials rounded up the youths Saturday night. Marcinak said they found blackjacks, ice picks, iron bars, screw drivers and baseball bats in their possession.

The juveniles were turned over to Fayette County juvenile authorities. The older boys were fined $10 apiece. All are from Uniontown.
Marcinak said the youths had been feuding with Perryopolis boys several weeks about girls who attend dances at a skating rink near here. He said trouble first flared up Friday night, and the rink was closed to prevent violence.
